9. Report to the Common Council

A. American Rescue Plan: Mayor Florsheim

The Chair states that the American Rescue Plan Task Force has had its first couple of meetings. Its next meeting is scheduled on January 12th. The Task Force is a good idea by the Council and City to consider the big questions of how to spend this money.

They still ask the questions, talking to neighboring communities to see what neighboring communities are doing with their new Federal dollars. What they are finding is that a lot are spending most, if not all, of the funds on Water and Sewer projects. This is something that was contemplated by Congress and is mentioned in the Act. The reason is the connection to the pandemic is among other things, is that advanced, modern sewer systems were used – Mattabassett being one of them – to try to prevent the spread of Covid by analyzing waste water and trying to anticipate where it was spreading before it happened to try to protect those communities. The more advanced sewers that we have, the better equipped we are to stay ahead of not only a pandemic, but other trends. That can be very helpful. It also happens to be the country has aging sewer and water infrastructure, especially this part of the country. This was a good way to get quick cash into that system. We need it here in Middletown as elsewhere for large scale investment in water and sewer infrastructure. He states that his feeling about this, noting that it is the Task Force’s feeling collectively, is that we need to make it a priority, but should not be the only thing that we spend our dollars on. The urgency is there and the value add is there. We have been working closely with the Water & Sewer Department and the Water Pollution Control Authority (WPCA) to see what projects we need to take action on.

A couple of facts stare us in the face. One is that, even if we spend all $20M dollars – as some communities are doing – on water and sewer upgrades that would not solve all of the challenges that we face to upgrade the water and sewer systems for the next 50 years. That is an even bigger project and for which we need a comprehensive plan He does not say this to alarm everybody, but he says it as a reason that we are already having serious conversations about it. It needs to be on everybody’s radar. It is going to be a topic that we will come back to, continue to some back to, adding that it is a topic that is not familiar to many of you. There is much more that we need to do on the water and sewer infrastructure and we are committed to doing that work. He reiterates that, even if we spend all of the Federal dollars on it, we would not get there.

He thinks that he public needs to see the Federal pandemic response going to things like mental health services and adding testing capacity, getting tests at home, and for our various businesses that continue to struggle in various ways.

All that is to say that, as a Task Force they have agreed on a general breakdown: about 50% of the Federal dollars, about $10M – noting that no votes have been taken and only one specific project has been assigned so far, as you all know. In terms of ballpark numbers, about $10M, about half of the dollars, will go toward infrastructure upgrades, mostly for water and sewer. The other half will go towards either new or continuing, existing City programs in partnership with non-profit agencies in the community, with individuals in the community, generally to support health and well-being, to support the economic impact of the pandemic. There are many things that will fall under that category. That is the big picture as to how we expect to allocate it.

The process by which that is going to happen is taking shape. At the next meeting, on January 12th at City Hall, Room 208, they will present, in a workshop setting, the application that the Department of Economic and Community Development is in the process of finalizing. Anybody, including a City Department, looking to take advantage of these funds will need to use to explain the project to allow the Task Force to make informed decisions. These are applications for the community development block grant (CDBG) federal dollars, which are administered by the Citizens; Advisory Committee. In some ways, this process will mirror that one. It will be a little different. We want to be sure that everyone has a fair hearing and those making the decision will have as much information as we can get to them: how many people will benefit; what the viability of the project is; the “shovel readiness” of it; and how it responds to urgent community needs that have been exacerbated by Covid. The next stage is that workshop presentation. The Department is working on a companion website as to how people can apply, background information, that sort of thing. That is slated to go up early this month before the meeting on January 12th. We look forward to continuing to roll this out. It will take more time to do it the way we are doing it rather than giving all of the money to one project or another, but this approach will pay off. It was wise of the Council and the City to put this Task Force together to make informed decisions. From what he sees happening, the rest of the State and other towns, he feels very comfortable about the decision making of this. He is happy to take questions.

Councilman Edward McKeon urges that, in this Covid environment, they not have meetings in Room 208.

The Chair replies that, as he said, (inaudible)

Councilman McKeon states that, now that they are this stage of negotiations, it would also be interesting to open this up with hybrid meeting so that the public can tune in, if they so choose to. He thinks a word of wisdom about Covid and to get the worked out.

The Chair replies that is a good suggestion, The Chair calls on Councilman Eugene Nocera.
Councilman Nocera thanks the Chair for his description of the process and for his support of the Council's wish to put this committee together. He has witnessed outstanding commitment and dialogue to a large committee of community and business oriented people, who now understand the needs of the City better. He also recommends that they have a workshop, like we are doing on tax stabilization, in February or March on the water and sewer needs to better inform the Council on the steps that need to be taken, there are a lot of good news. Unlike a lot of communities, we do not need to rebuild the sewage treatment plant, but we do have antiquated system that needs replacing, including the connection of Public Works. He adds that he thinks that a joint workshop would be a good idea.

Councilman Philip Pessina concurs, stating that it is a great idea.

The Chair states that this is something that we can explore. We do recognize these long term issues about 10 years before other communities did. We are in good shape in that respect, but what happens when we investigate is to find more problems. We are at that stage right now. A lot of other communities still have to find out what their problems are. He reiterates that a workshop would be appropriate. The Chair calls on Councilman Vincent Loffredo.

Councilman Loffredo states that he has a couple of follow-up questions. The City and a few other municipalities have been sued about the impact on the (Long Island) Sound. He asks if the Chair can comment on how that is being addressed or is it being taken into account considering the merits of the suit that has been placed before us.

The Chair replies that he does not want to comment out of turn on pending litigation. It is being taken seriously. It dates back to action that were take – or not taken – years ago. We understand that both parties want to come to a resolution on and we are going to work through that process. He thinks of the lawsuit is like a canary in a coal mine. Think of it as a sign of things to come if appropriate actions are not taken. As characterized to him, municipalities will act on thing like this to the extent that DEEP (Connecticut Department of Energy & Environmental Protection), through the court system, private entities hold them to the standard. The State regulatory agencies will only put as much pressure as the EPA (United States Department of Environmental Protection) or the people above them are putting pressure on them for results when it comes to things like this. We are in the position where we are starting to feel that pressure from DEEP from the non-profits and watchdogs who keep an eye on this sort of thing, but it could get much worse. We are not at the phase where we need to panic, but we are at the phase where we need to be proactive. We are proactive now, there will be more than one lawsuit, more than one regulatory action, and there will be bigger problems to face.

Councilman Loffredo states that he has a follow-up on the Task Force. One thing that came up about a year ago, half a year ago, when negotiating for the work at the yacht club, we reached out to General Counsel for a legal opinion as to whether or not some of that money could be used for the upgrading to the toil of the City's costs, addressing a number of issues, the roof itself. We did receive a clear and explicit indication from General Counsel that use of those funds would be totally appropriate and in concert with the Federal legislation and the regulations. His follow-up question deals with all of the other possibilities that are out there for health purposes and a variety of other groups to share, or be given, monies for x, y, and z purposes. Will we receive a legal option for such expenditures that say "yes" the regulations have been reviewed, the law has been reviewed and the City expending that money is appropriate to avoid potential after-the-fact project, to get this, to the best of our ability to legal counsel and to other organizations. This is to make sure that we don't spend money as we shouldn't and have some assurance, up front, so that we don't advise group that they can apply, but, frankly, at the end of the day, using that money for that purpose is not appropriate. He wants some assurance that research and work is being done now and not later.

The Chair replies that is a good question. It is a good thing to bear in mind, noting that, just like the sewer work, it is better to know now. If there is any kind of question, there will be that type of investigations. Some things will be clear cut: anything related to testing, anything related to water and sewer, but any time there is any question, that is . . . there are lots of questions out there. When we had a questions, we reached out to the Congressional Offices. The Congressional Offices stated that they cannot even get responses to their individual questions let alone the individual municipalities, They are still working through it with the resources thither have at the Treasury, This underscores the need for using our own expertise, to the extent that we can. We can use the precedent that we have been given. He notes that General Counsel Brig Smith is sitting on the statewide committee providing guidance on this. We will be on the cutting edge of knowing what is allowed and what's not. We will cover all bases on this at the front end rather than the back end.

Councilman Loffredo states that he has one follow-up. He asks if these expenditures will come before the Council for voting to approve those final expenditure. He asks: "Will the Task Force come before the Council? Correct."

The Chair replies, "Correct."

There being no further questions, the Chair moves on to the Riverfront report.

B. Riverfront: Mayor Florsheim
The Chair states that the Riverfront report is brief. It is moving along, very smoothly.

The big news is that we have our next community workshop coming up. The first one was very successful. Anyone who has gone through Main Street Markey has seen the store front. There you can see the feedback that we have gotten and a tone more since the surveys have been filled out, both in person and at the store front and online. There has been lots of good feedback coming in, which you can see at the web portal and at the store front collection points. It is gratifying to see the public engagement and excitement he is again glad that people are on the same page as to what they want to see. There is some disagreement of the specifics, but real consensus around making sure that public usage and open space – not in the sense of wilderness, but as usable, a passive recreational space – are going to be a centerpiece of that development, getting that balanced with business and commercial development is key. The way to get that to work is get all the details right: have every property, every parcel, every stakeholder accounted to get that balance otherwise it is just an aspiration.

He is happy to report that have had really, really productive meeting. The City and the consultants have been meeting as a team with small to medium sized group, people whose voices need to be heard, from people at CVH, who has property abutting the river, to businesses and residential groups in that immediate area, to Weslayan and the Chamber, the Anti-Racism Task Force, to other City Task Forces and boards and commissions, past Harbor Commissions and past Harbor Agencies. It is an ongoing process. They are taking from that, we are taking from that, not only the history, but also that people on the ground right now around the riverfront, what their processes are, what their next project is going to be or not be. Having these conversations now before bringing in specific development plans will help us get through what could the hard parts later, we are trying to get everybody on the same page.

That is about all he has to update. There will be more following the community workshop. He asks the Councilmembers to spread the word, adding that it will be virtual on January 11th. It will be on his social media and the City’s social media. He hopes to see everyone there, he is willing to answer any questions, before taking questions he notes that Harbor Park came up. As they are voting tonight on LoCIP funds for the roof replacement, they will also look for other avenues for that project. He is happy to report that this project is in the very, very final stages of completion for the roof, if not already completed, there is still some work to be done on the rest of the building. It is an important step in the right direction.

He states that he would be remiss by not mentioning that thanks to Bill Russo and his team at Public Works as well as Councilman Gene Nocera and the Public Works Commission. Under their leadership, we now have the new railing up at Harbor Park. If you have not been down to see them, he invites people to do so. It is a big step in the right direction and paves the way for more positive change. He thanks everyone.

The Chair calls on Councilman Philip Pessina.

Councilman Pessina states that he drove by it the other day. The roof is fabulous. The railings and boardwalk, everything. His question is if they have engaged the Harbor Development Commission, adding that when he was on that several years ago, they talked about docking an having boats come in. That is one of the city commissions and he is wondering if they had reached out to them for input.

The Chair replies that this is a great question. He does not know if they have met yet, but does know that they are on the list of stakeholders. He will hopefully be able to report on that shortly.

C. COVID 19 Update: Health Department - Kevin Elak, Acting Director

Acting Health Director Kevin Elak states that some of his report repeats what he stated during Questions to Director. He will share the information for the public, noting that he hopes it will be helpful to them.

Every week he sends out the report to Councilmembers and community stakeholders as to the Covid status in Middletown, noting that he has been doing this for almost two (2) years. He offers some highlights, adding it is not data heavy. All of Connecticut, every county, is in the high risk level as defined by the CDC (Center for Disease Control). This should not be a surprise to anybody. This means a high level of transmission. It is the same for every town in Connecticut with only one exception here in Middletown, the data show that in the past two (2) weeks, there has been an average of 200 cases per week in Middletown, We have seen about 475 cases in the past two weeks, which is a stark difference form what we saw a few weeks ago. It is not different from what we see in any other part of the State. When we compare our numbers to town of our size, as to case rates, we are on the lower side compared to other towns of our size. The same holds for the percent positive Middletown has one of the lowest percent positive rates compared to towns of similar size and population. We also do the most amount of testing with almost 8,000 tests in Middletown in the past two weeks compared to other towns, which are just round 5,000. That may not be welcome data for people struggling to find easy access to tests, but we are fortunate to have a lot of different places in town – a pharmacy or urgent care center, the State center at Cross Street Church, (inaudible) Labs. They are constantly to look to improve those. He will get back to that.

Some of the data that he mentions in his report are comparison of risk of being vaccinated and not fully vaccinated. We look at the data and do a relative risk. Some of the numbers are staggering, If you are not vaccinated you have a 33x higher risk of dying from Covid-19 and a 12x higher risk of hospitalization. This is what is actually being observed and the numbers coming from the State.

Another striking number is in hospitalization. Moving forward, the metrics like positivity rate and cases are going to be use, especially as we see more use of home test kits. Data from these kits are not reported to the State so we will miss that data as to positivity cases and positive versus negative test rates. Testing at home does not get reported, cannot get reported to local or State health Department. At home tests are very valuable to have so people can rapidly identify whether or not they are positive or negative.

Getting back to the data, 71% of hospitalizations are the unvaccinated. We have good data in Connecticut that shows that being fully vaccinated, especially with a booster, provides better protection than not being vaccinated.

He wants to focus on his strategies. We are not veering far from what we have talked about during this pandemic. We are not changing strategies. There are three (3) big tools to protect yourself. He likes to use the analogy of preparing for a hurricane. You are given the warning and can install plywood over windows or install sandbags. There is a lot to do to protect yourself before the storm hits. With the Omicron wave coming up, there is a lot that people can do to protect themselves. You can choose to do anything and take a change. We still know that getting vaccinated is the best thing that you can do for yourself. If not vaccinated, it is not too late to start initiating the vaccine. We have plenty of providers where you can get a vaccine. You can check the City website to see where you can get a vaccine.

Another strategy is wearing a mask, which they have recommended for a long time. Any mask is good. With the widespread cases, wearing an N95 or KN95 mask if going to provide even better protection. They are more widely available now, which we did not see early in the pandemic The City has received a large supply of N95 masks and will be working in the next couple of days to distribute.

The final tool is testing. As public health professionals, they have recommended this to people. We remind eloquently that, if you have had close contact with someone having Covid or if you have symptoms, which at this time of year may be a cold or flu or Covid, it is a good idea to get tested. If you are going to gather with people, it is a good idea to get tested before gathering. We now know that we have to follow-up with the hot topic of providing more access to the at-home test. The challenge that we face as a State and nation is having ample supply of these tests. Having these readily available to test often to protect themselves. The City got a supply of tests form the State. It is not the number that we expected. Mayor Florsheim issues press release today that, we did not receive a large enough supply to be able to share with the public, but we are working with our partners and providers in town to get these out to the community to those who need them most: the underserved and vulnerable populations. They have started doing that, having given out about half the supply. By the end of the week, they will all be distributed to this who need them.

One quick update on what the Health Department has been focusing on over the past month: getting boosters out to populations that are at high risk, that are vulnerable. They hope they have reached the targeted population of the elderly, residential facilities, and home-bound residents. They continue to do that, he encourages everyone to get a booster shot.

The Chair calls on Councilman Eugene Nocera followed by Councilman Edward McKeon.

Councilman Nocera thanks Acting Director Elak for all he does. It is not a marathon, but an ironman task. He acknowledges the Health Department staff for all they do for our community. His question: given the data just presented on the effectiveness of getting vaccinated, the return to school is in the perfect storm. We have a huge increase in transmission among the kids, adding that, in the schools, they are in close proximity. He asks what the State is doing to encourage age 5-year old children and up to get vaccinated. He does not see a significant campaign for families to consider this, noting that he little ones need this protection, too.

Acting Director Elak replies that Councilman Nocera makes a good point. The focus is on boosting the population, which takes away from getting the first vaccine into people, including children. On Wednesday, they begin working with Griffin Hospital providing vaccines for kids ages 5 to 11 at Cross Street Church, they have not done this to date, having focused on ages 12 and up. They are pleased with this as they will be doing the ages 12 and up while Griffin Hospital focus on ages 5 to 11 population. Working together, they will provide vaccines for kids and their caregivers.

The Chair calls on Councilman Edward McKeon.

Councilman McKeon states that he has two (2) questions. He asks if, demographically, we know how many children have been hospitalized due to Covid.

Acting Director Elak asks if he wants to know in Middletown or in the State.

Councilman McKeon replies, either, noting that he heard that the State (inaudible) giving the information out.
Acting Director Elak replies that there is one piece of data in the weekly report. He is not sure if it states the number of case, but it does give the report. He notes that there is not much data coming out on that.

Councilman McKeon states that, nationally, there is some reporting that here are more and more children being hospitalized. This leads his second point, which was discussed during Questions to Directors. There are things that we can do, including wearing masks, which is recommended by everybody from Dr. Fauci to the CDC. Even the Governor says it; however, he is not willing to mandate it even for a short period of time. Councilman McKeen states that he believes that we owe it to people, to children and parents from 5 year and younger, who cannot be vaccinated, and to those who cannot be vaccinated because they are immunocompromised or otherwise compromised. Someone said that wearing a mask is an act of love. He remarks that, walking through Stop & Shop on a Sunday morning, it seems that there are a lot of people here, who do not have a lot of love in their hearts. We need to give a tool to business owners. The Governor has said that we cannot legislate common sense. People should be able to go up to these people and say to them, “Please put your mask on.” He knows that the Mayor’s Office is thinking about it that the Acting Health Director is thinking about it. He urges them, as soon as potable, to implement a mask mandate in Middletown for a short period of time — a month — which can be reconsidered. We are hoping that this surge will be a steep upgrade and a steep down grade. Within that month, it will give people the common sense tool of wearing a mask. This is not a question, but he urges the Mayor and Acting Health Director to consider this mask mandate as soon as possible.

Acting Director Elak replies that, as discussed during Questions to Directors, he does fully support. . . he is hoping that the Governor would make a decision as a State to do that. He thinks that we are at the point, even if short-lived, that again it’s a tool that we are thinking about the business community using. Sometimes people need that: something mandated by the town to give enough teeth for people to say, as you mentions. It would be a mandate, not just a recommendation.

The Chair states that, as a point or personal privilege, it is something the he will echo to look closely at, and having been looking closely at. We were holding out that there would be State action, he was on the phone call, the famous phone call where the municipalities were told about the test coming and then not coming. There were a lot of mayors and first selectman, who do not have a lot to say about the tests, but were hoping for a mask mandate, the act that this d dnot happen after that was, if not at the State level . . . message sent and reviewed. We want to give that tool to our business owners, not just the owners, but the workers, who work in these retail facilities, where people need to be. That is why we have one (mask mandate) at City Hall as it give peace of mind with that tool to be able to say something. The Chair calls on Councilman Philip Pessina.

Councilman Pessina states that today, a lot of schools were delayed or closing. Our teachers are very valuable. In a lot of school system, this has taken a toll on them as well as the little one and students, who go on line or into the schools. He asks Acting Director Elak if, during this Covid peak, he has he been in constant contact with the nursing staff at the Board of Education and the administration based on what is happening in and around Middletown

Acting Director Elak replies that they had a conference call last night with the school district administration -- the Superintendent, Marco Gaylord, and Nursing Supervisor Mary Emerling -- to discuss a lot of things. With school returning today and with the CDC having updated the rules on quarantining and isolation, the shortening of the time period for many different reasons, his reaction is mixed. These guidelines have been charged by the Department of Public Health for pre-K through 12 schools. That is another thing we have been discussing, how to implement them in the school system. Their primary goal to keep kids in school, even with the environment for the pandemic to have to see what happens. If it gets to the point where that cannot happen or for a quick period of going remote. He saw in the news some school systems going remote or other things. This had to do with transportation and staffing shortages, not so much with transmission in schools. We know leading up to this point, we have seen little in school transmission. Most originated outside of school where her home, sleepovers, or extra-curricular activities, not the classroom. We have to keep a close eye on this. He notes that he answered some of the question. He adds that they have been working with the school nurses. Part of the guidance from the State Health Department in changing the quarantine and isolation timeframe is that school nurses can move away from doing contact tracing for in-school contract for these reasons. It is a lot of resources needed to do that. Nurses have been doing it, but it takes a lot of time away when they should be focusing on kids, who are sick. They have been talking about moving away from contact tracing and to focus on what is going on inside the school so nurses can focus on kids coming to the office who are not feeling well.

Councilman Pessina states that these calls, are holistically involving public and private schools. They have information, the last thing he is happy to hear that they are partnering with Griffin Hospital to get the little eons done as he fears a lot for them. He reiterates, stating of that information will go through the school system, both public and private.

Acting Director Elak replies, “Absolutely,” adding that hey always share this information with the schools. Marco Gaylord at the Middletown School is very good, noting that he sends out emails about it in a daily basis to school families. Acting Director Elak states that he will get that information out, adding that it is going to be on an recurring basis for every Wednesday until the 3rd week of February. If they see that there is a need after that, it can be continued, He is very excited, they will be working with the Cross Street Church and the Ministerial Health Fellowship to get that information out to the community that this is available.

Councilman Pessina asks if they will be doing a press release, he has heard a couple of parents, who want to know where they can get vaccinations and testing. Addressing the Chair, Councilman Pessina asks if a press release would be helpful as this is happening so families with young ones will know how to get it. They are getting all of this data. He appreciates everything that Acting Director Elak is doing and thanks him for the report and his efforts.

There being no further questions, the Chair thanks Acting Director Elak and his amazing staff for all of their hard work.

FISCAL IMPACT: $82,230 in reduced taxes over a 10-year period, without taking into consideration additional tax revenue from appreciated property value due to the rehabilitation or periodic revaluation of the Grand List.
Councilwoman Jeanette Blackwell reads the proposed ordinance and moves to approve. Councilman Edward McKeon seconds the motion.

Councilwoman Blackwell states that she is anxious to speak to this ordinance, adding that the Mayor alluded to it earlier. She notes that, on April 5, 2021, the Council approved the historical structure tax abatement, which is Section 272-17. This particular ordinance tonight is predicated on that tax abatement ordinance. This is the first tax abatement coming to the Council post approval of the original ordinance. This structure was built-in 1747 on Williams Street and relocated to Main Street. It is listed on the Connecticut Register of Historical Places and on the Nationals Register of Historic Places. It came before the EDC (Economic Development Commission) in September 2021. This evening, we are looking approve a 10-year tax abatement valued at $82,230. She adds that this particular developer purchased this property in 2019 before the Council approved the tax abatement ordinance, indicating that this developer clearly appreciated this property. She notes that earlier there was a workshop earlier. This abatement is about offering incentives for developers who want to purchase or restore, in this case, a historical structure. She supports this proposed ordinance and asks her colleagues to do the same.

There being no further discussion, the Chair calls for a voice vote. The motion is approved unanimously by a vote of 11-0 (AYE: Councilmembers Blackwell, Carta, Faulkner, D. Ford, E. Ford, Gennaro, Loffredo, Mangiafico, McKeon, Nocera, Pessina, and Salafia; ABSENT: Councilman Mangiafico) The matter is approved.

B. Approving that Mayor Benjamin D. Florsheim be authorized to sign and submit an application to the State of Connecticut for a grant in the amount of $25,000.00 in Local Capital Projects Improvement Program funds, for the cost of purchasing several Uninterruptible Power Supply (UPS) batteries for the City of Middletown Central Communications Center’s telecommunications site; and that a new line item be created in the Capital Improvement Plan entitled “Central Comm. Councilman Philip Pessina reads the resolution and moves to approve. Councilman Eugene Nocera seconds the motion.

Councilman Pessina states that, once the sun comes out, take a ride to Harbor Park and see 80 Harbor Drive. The roof is nearly completed and is beautiful. It jumps out at you when you drive by. It tries in with the boardwalk and fencing, which are adjacent. These are the first of many improvements to be done to the very well-known City asset. It will be, and should be, the anchor as we move to riverfront development. Again, he urges everyone to drive by and see the work.

WHEREAS, communities in Connecticut and across the nation are struggling to manage the rising cost of waste-disposal and recycling programs; and
